PERSONAL PROFILE

I recently graduated with a 1st Class BA Honours degree in Digital Media Design from Bournemouth University. The motivation and desire to achieve this originated at the age of thirteen, when I discovered a passion for visual effects and began teaching myself the skills to create and produce short films. I became aware that when I was watching a film, television show or advertisement, I was not watching purely for entertainment, but observing and schooling myself within visual effects. As my interests grew I expanded my skillset into motion graphics, app design and editing, which led me to study Digital Media Design. As a graduate, I am eager to use my skills in an energetic and experienced team environment, helping produce original and exciting projects whilst growing my own technical abilities.
